Viking Gallery at Viking House

This art deco building from the nineteen thirties was originally built as a Turkish Hamman with a wonderful tessellated floor to the entrance hall and stairway, elegant marble walls and small windows showing the Turkish crescent in stained glass. The building now houses nine flats and a recently revamped ground floor and basement art gallery. The gallery opened in 2015 and has already hosted an eclectic mix of exhibitions, meetings, workshops, classes and educational events. The apartments and public areas are gradually being restored to their former glory.

The space may be hired at any time for rehearsals, film shoots, PR events and functions, children's parties or elegant soirees. It is a useful and adaptable space which can host a wide mix of events as well as exciting art shows.
